Your deep faith in God and adherence to traditional values are an inspiration to all of us. You've gained quite a number of fans along the road since "I Want You Back" and Nancy and I are among them. Keep up the good work, Michael. We're very happy for you.

Jackson at the White House with President Ronald Reagan and first lady Nancy Reagan, 1984

The presentation took place on May 14, 1984, at the White House.^[53] Upon reaching the podium, Reagan remarked, "I hope you'll forgive me, but we have quite a few young folks in the White House who all wanted me to give you the same message. They said to tell Michael, "Please give some TLC to the PYTs."^[54] A reference to Jackson's Grammy Award-nominated song, "P.Y.T. (Pretty Young Thing)". Reagan also stated that Jackson "is proof of what a person can accomplish through a lifestyle free of alcohol or drug abuse. People young and old respect that. And if Americans follow his example, then we can face up to the problem of drinking and driving, and we can, in Michael's words, beat it."^{[53][54]}

In April 1990, Jackson returned to the White House to be recognized as "Artist of the Decade" by President George H. W. Bush.^[55] Two years later, on May 1, 1992, President Bush presented Jackson with an award acknowledging him as "a point of light ambassador".^{[55][56]} Jackson received the award in recognition for his efforts in inviting disadvantaged children to his Neverland Ranch.^[56] Jackson was the only entertainer to receive the award.^[56]

In late 1970, The Jackson 5 begin their first national tour in Boston, Massachusetts; they play in 16 cities, finishing with a special "homecoming" performance in their hometown, Gary, Indiana - consisting in two sold-out concerts at Westside High School. Each member of The Jackson 5 is presented with a Key to the City of Gary by Mayor Richard Gordon Hatcher.

In 1984 Jackson was voted 'Hero Of Young America' by a Poll of 4,000 teenagers in December that year and was published in The World Almanac And Book Of Facts.

On November 20, 1984, with Star No. 1,793 in front of Grauman's Chinese Theatre for The Jacksons, Michael becomes the first celebrity to have two different stars in the same category dedicated to him, having received one as a member of The Jacksons in 1980.

The 1984 Summer Olympics saw the Jackson family be honoured with the Medal of Friendship Award which was collected by Michael and his brothers.

The Video Vanguard Award, also known as the Lifetime Achievement Award was renamed in 1991 as the Michael Jackson Video Vanguard Award.^[71]

In 1984, the NAACP announces that Michael Jackson and his brothers have been named honorary co-chairmen of the civil rights organization's National Voter Registration Drive. Registration booths were set up outside Arrowhead Stadium in Kansas City, venue of the Tour's opening concert. (July 4)

An extensive survey in 1997 declared Michael Jackson the Most Famous Person in the World.

His fashion legacy still lives on. The biggest global megastar has made it to the TIME Magazine's All-TIME 100 Fashion Icons list of 2012.^{[72][73]}

Michael Jackson is the SECOND MOST SCULPTED FIGURE of all the Madame Tussauds wax figures. According to Madame Tussauds, there are all together "19 wax figures" of Michael Jackson in their museums around the world. Only the Queen has been portrayed more often.^{[74][75][76][77][78]}

In mid September 1987, on a halt from performing in Osaka, Japan as part of the Bad world tour, Jackson meets with then Mayor, Yasushi Oshima to be handed over the Key to the City. The singer also brings along his pet chimpanzee who accompanied him throughout the whole tour, Bubbles, the first animal allowed inside the Osaka Town Hall. "Key To The City" is an award descended from "Freedom of the City", made in several countries, but more prevalent in the United States. The Key is presented to esteemed visitors, residents or others the city wishes to honor and it symbolizes the freedom of the recipient to enter and leave the city at will as a trusted friend of city's residents.

Upon performing three sold-out concerts at the Metropolitan Chicago's Rosemont Horizon in April 1988, Michael Jackson receives the Key to the City from Mayor Eugene Sawyer, who cites the entertainer for his onstage performance and humanitarian philanthropy. Michael shares his honor backstage with internationally renowned singer/dancer/actress Lola Falana, her waging also a courageous battle against multiple sclerosis.

On June 20, 1988, Michael Jackson arrives in Paris, France, P.R.-ist Bob Jones and bodyguard Wayne Nagin. The city's mayor at the time, Jacques Chirac, presents Jackson with 'La Grande Medaille de la Ville' de Paris, equivalent to the Keys to the City.
