History of Beer

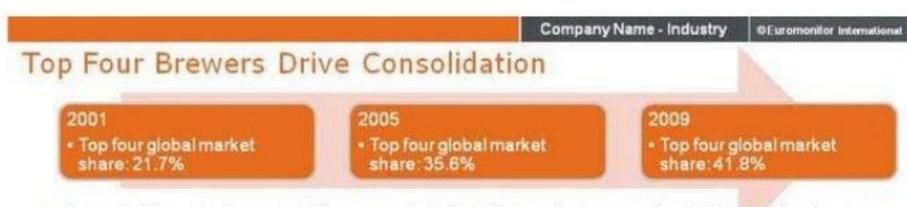

- Beer is one of the world's oldest beverages, recorded back to the 6th millennium
- A very important drink in many cultures
- Family and microbreweries dominated around the world up untill the 20th century
- The hunt for taste versus the hunt for profits
- The development of the beer industry in the USA
- Today a global and fiercely competitive business

History of beer - the last decade

- Consolidation trends going even further
- The top 10 and their market share
- The top 4 today dominating Top 4 Global Brewers Volumes Shares in Beer by Region 2009
- Other trends
- Financial crisis impact

Several of the major brewers still have gaps in their global reach; for example, all of the leading brewers have a gap in Australasia and A-B InBev and Carlsberg both lack a major presence in the Middle East and Africa. Key

2009 Overview

- Consolidation effects evident in Eastern Europe, Asia Pacific, Latin America and Western Europe.
- Four brewers each now have a global volume share of beer exceeding 5%.
- Global volume shares for the top 10 brewers in 2009 range from 2.3% to 19.5%.

Global Macro Environmental Analysis

- Emerging markets almost 50% of global growth (4.3% Q I)
- Advanced economies weak growth, 2.5% compared to 3% from last year.
- Developing economies projected a strong growth, but will decline from 7.5% (2010) to 6.5% (2011)

 IMF figures usually overoptimistic, so we estimate slightly weaker global growths

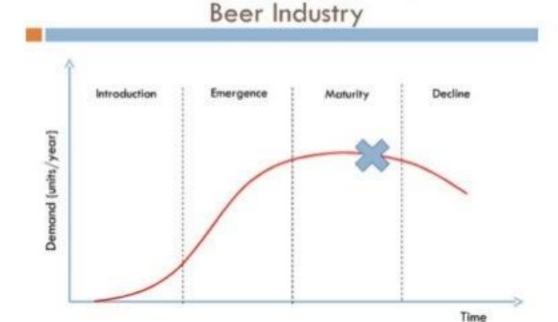

Global Beer Environmental Analysis

- 2010 Beer brewers sales increase of 2.6% (2009 9.2%).
 - Overall beer sales remain flat
 - US beer sales down 1% (only growth seen in craft beers)
 - US brewers 81% of US market share (imports gradually increasing share)
 - Consumer still remain taste conscious
 - Beer industry performance correlated with economy
- Law and ethics:
 - Stricter laws = drunk driving and smoking ban
 - US Federal beer tax = 40% of retail cost of beer
 - $18/gallon barrel (if produce <2million --> discount $7 for first 60,000barrels).
